WEEKLY USA GRAIN AND PROTEIN REPORT January 29, 2022

This was another week for higher prices for most grains and oilseeds. Corn prices were up by about USD 8 m/t with soybeans up by about USD 20 m/t and soymeal also up by about USD 20 m/t. US wheat prices were up a little, a dollar or two, but nothing too exciting with wheat.

Futures prices for soybeans and soymeal reached new high levels on the week as export business for US supply looks to be very good, especially with the possibility of lower crops in Argentina and Brazil. USA reports add that the winter weather in the USA has made transportation very difficult which is also helping to push nearby prices higher.

USA export prices for corn were also strong this week as winter problems in the Mississippi river and railway winter delays have made export stocks tight. Currently January and February USA barge prices to NOLA are at quite a premium to March/April.

Even though there has been some rainfall in Brazil and Argentina, there is still a lot of concern over corn and soybean crops and expert crop forecasts seem to be dropping every week --- a good reason for higher prices.

USA wheat prices did move a little higher this week but not as much as some experts had thought would happen – the Russia/Ukraine situation is very difficult and could easily have a major effect on Black Sea grain exports --- lets hope that nothing happens and not just because we are concerned about grain supply.

For now, prices look to be steady to higher across the board.

And for February 02 to February 08, Russian export grain taxes are at: wheat USD 93.90 m/t – down USD 1.90, barley USD 74.60 m/t – up USD 0.20 m/t and corn USD 49.20 m/t – down USD 1.40 m/t.

Estimated Bulk Grain Freight in USD per m/t, basis heavy grains.

USA DDGS prices into major export markets moved higher again this week – up as much as USD 10 m/t to some markets in Asia. Reports in the USA suggest that ethanol production may be cut back due to large supplies which will also lower DDGS production and could help to keep prices steady to higher.

Both corn gluten meal and corn gluten feed prices were steady this week but could move higher this coming week due to higher prices for corn and all protein items.

Experts are not forecasting any drop in prices in coming days – much will depend on what grain and oilseed prices do.

Meat and bone meal prices into Asia were a little stronger this week but with Lunar New Year holidays about to happen, beginning on February 01 for about 2 weeks, business is expected to be very slow as all China and most Chinese will be on holiday.

The strength in soymeal prices this week is also a factor for steady to higher animal protein prices.

USA domestic prices were also a little higher this week, almost all due to the rally in soymeal prices – soymeal was up by about USD 20 m/t FOB USA.

Most weekend repots feel that animal protein prices will remain steady to higher.

SECTION 2 --- FISHMEAL COMMENTS AND PRICES: PERUVIAN

Fishing in the South of Peru is now up to almost 36,000 m/t against the quota of 486,500 – the quota runs until June 30, 2022. Fishmeal production to date is just under 8,000 m/t with fishoil just over 800 m/t.

New orders in Peru have slowed down due the upcoming Chinese holidays and due to Peru producers looking for higher prices for the next fishing season. According to trade reports about 90,000 m/t of fishmeal have been sold for the next season.

China imported about 1.8 million m/t of fishmeal in 2021 with just over 1.0 million m/t coming from Peru. Vietnam, Thailand, Russia, Chile, Mauritania and USA were also suppliers to China, with shipments in excess of 70,000 m/t each, but no country is as large a supplier as Peru.

Peru's fishmeal exports for 2021 totaled 1.2 million m/t with just under 1.0 mm/t going to China. Any discrepancy between Peru exports and China imports are due to goods afloat at the end of each year. China represents 82% of Peru's fishmeal exports with all of Asia accounting for close to 92%.

Fishmeal prices are steady to higher with no one looking for any lower prices for now. The final price direction will depend greatly on the size of the next fishing quota.
